A. Background

WHO estimates that mental, neurological and substance use disorders make up 10% of the global burden of disease. Around 1 in 5 of the world's children and adolescents have a mental disorder. Depression is one of the leading causes of disability, affecting 264 million people in the world. Moreover, almost 0.8 million people die by suicide every year in the world, and globally, suicide is the second leading cause of death among individuals aged 15-29 years.

Nearly 7.5% of the Indian population suffers from some form of mental disorder. India accounts for 15% of the global mental, neurological and substance abuse disorder burden. Moreover, persons with mental disorders are also known to be associated with a wide range of social and societal problems, if their illness is unrecognized or is inappropriately managed. An even more troubling fact is that there is an extreme shortage of mental health workers like psychologists, psychiatrists, and trained nurses in India. For example, there are only 3 psychiatrists per million people in India, while the corresponding figures for the USA and China are 105 and 22 psychiatrists, respectively. A huge majority of mental health professionals are located in urban areas. Hence, the shortage of trained mental health specialists in rural India is more severe.

The experience during the pandemic has also reinforced the need to focus on digital technologies, capacity building of frontline health professionals, as well as researchers and clinicians, and to focus on the health needs of marginalized populations. Resilient health systems which are focused on comprehensive health care provision along the life cycle should be a priority. Working across the life spectrum from perinatal mental health, to child/school mental health, youth mental health, adult mental health, geriatric mental health, and highlighting attention towards public health priorities should be an area of focus.

Research, advocacy, development of policy recommendations, and supportive legal frameworks and advancements can play a crucial enabler role in enabling the country and states to better respond to priority health needs.

5. NLIU will establish a mechanism for resource sharing of the reading/training materials at library and online with IIL.
6. NLIU will engage with mental health experts and collaborators at IIL for designing courses or delivering lectures to the students on selected and specialized topics.
7. NLIU with IIL will explore the opportunities for collaborating with other stakeholders and individuals working in the domain of law, policy and mental health after mutual understanding.

D. EXCHANGE OF HUMAN RESOURCES

The Parties agree to explore ways of encouraging collaboration between researchers/faculty members from the two institutions. Specifically, the two institutions would identify appropriate researchers/faculty members as key collaborators, Principal Investigator(s)/ Co-Investigator(s) at their respective ends, and encourage members of their researchers/faculty to undertake short visits for lectures, facilitate research projects at either end, etc. The terms and conditions for each visit or an assignment, including those concerning stipend, travel, and housing, would be worked out between the partner institutions. The resource sharing of the reading/training materials at library can also be accessed mutually among the parties.

E. AREAS OF COOPERATION

“Webinar on Interdisciplinary Approach between Law and Management”

Indore Institute of Law organized a webinar on “Interdisciplinary approach between Law and Management” on 22 August 2022, in collaboration with MIDAS Singapore 100 students of B.A.LL.B, BB.A.LL.B participated in the webinar.

The main theme of the webinar was to make the student understand the relation between Law and management and its need in society and profession.

Law is one of the professional careers essential for sustainability in the world. It is the foundation on which modern society is built and rebuilt. The Law and Management approach focuses on the behaviors of economic people towards Law.

The Law and Management methods are therefore primarily behavioral and borrow numerous investigation and data processing techniques, since these approaches rely on observation. The purpose of the approach is nevertheless specific and consistent with management sciences, as it tries to understand how Law can be used by and within companies to achieve their assigned goals that are mainly economic. The understanding of interdisciplinary approach between Law and Management can be used to base recommendations that are addressed primarily not to normative or judicial authorities.

3. The Objective:

The 'Partners', decided that it was mutually beneficial to have a formal understanding between them in sensitizing the students of the institution about The Art of Living Programs.

The purpose of education is to prepare a person for life. To an experienced educationist, it is a well-known fact that the age group of 18-30 years is extremely crucial. This is the age where issues of career, relationships, peer/parental pressures, and anxiety about the future all come to the fore simultaneously. For youth bogged down by these issues, academic/professional performance and development to their full potential suffers. Nowhere, neither at home nor at school, have we been taught how to deal with our stress and negative emotions.

WHO defines Life Skills as 'the abilities for adaptive and positive behaviour that enable individuals to deal effectively with the demand and changes of everyday life.' The Art of Living programs are specially designed to develop the Knowledge Aspects which the New Education Policy (NEP) 2020 refers to as "liberal arts" – soft skills such as communication, discussion, debate, teamwork, social and moral awareness.

This partnership between TAOL and Indore Institute of Law aims to train students in the above knowledge aspects of "Liberal Arts" to give students a holistic, multi-disciplinary & value-based education via TAOL's tried and tested student development programs to develop all capacities of human beings -intellectual, aesthetic, social, physical, emotional, and moral in an integrated manner.

i) Programs offered by TAOL:

TAOL will conduct the following program at Indore Institute of Law:

Youth Empowerment & Life Skill Programs, Stress Management & Various other Skills Program (YES!+) for the students aged 18+.

About the Project

Skill development is the key to success which improves productivity and employability opportunities. It's the bridge between job and workforce. We believe that education leads to empowerment and is indispensable tool for women empowerment, and that is the truth. Education has the power to make you stand out and prove the world that a WOMAN can actually fulfill her dreams on her own.

A large effort is needed to create a skilled workforce for creating an economic prosperity.

● The aim of skill development, in case of women, is not just simply preparing them for jobs; but also to boost their performance by improving the quality of work in which they are involved. Looking at the importance of the role, women play in the development of a nation, one can understand that there is a long way to go in that direction.

Currently, a majority of the female workforce in India is unskilled. They can be motivated to develop their skill – that will give them high paying jobs with better livelihood & confidence to earn for their family. It will develop their ability & quality to move ahead and be self-dependent.
