CALL FOR PAPERS

ABOUT

The Legal Voice of India (LVI) is a peer-reviewed law journal that publishes bold, innovative, and thought-provoking research. Its main goal is to explore modern legal issues and promote strong legal research and critical thinking around the world. LVI focuses on connecting law with history, society, and global perspectives. It encourages interdisciplinary studies that cross traditional boundaries of law and invite new ideas and approaches. The journal values quality and originality of thought over authors' backgrounds. It aims to make legal writing both engaging and understandable, welcoming diverse styles of expression in English. Over 12 issues, LVI has published major research works, translations, archival studies, and creative writings on both Indian and international law.

SUMBISSION PROCESS

LVI welcomes original and previously unpublished research paper, review paper, articles and book reviews for publication in its upcoming issue (Edition 13, 2025).
